Revising for English Language can be done in a number of ways; different methods work for different people and it is important to find the way that works for you.

- 1) YouTube. Checkout: Mr Bruff, Mr Salles, Pate Resources, Mr Everything English or Stacey Reay on YouTube. You can watch the videos, make notes on top tips for each question and create your own revision guide. You can even try the activities that are suggested.
- 2) Buy a revision guide and work through it in your spare time. There are Literature Revision guides on Parent Pay called “text guides” King Edward VI School Shop \(parentpayshop.co.uk\). They also allow you to practise answering the questions.
- 3) Practise. Practice papers can be downloaded from the AQA website along with the mark schemes. We have also put plenty on MS Teams. Practising answers and understanding what the examiners are looking for are some of the most effective ways of preparing yourself for the exam. - 4) Read. The best way to improve as a reader is to read; the best way to improve as a writer is to read. Read books or newspapers in your spare time. Here are some online resources you could use: download.asp \(clwacademy.co.uk\) or English Language Revision Booklet - Paper 1.pdf \(southamcollege.com\)
- 5) Other websites like GCSE Pod: GCSE Learning and Revision | GCSEPod or Seneca Learning: Free Homework & Revision for A Level, GCSE, KS3 & KS2 \(senecalearning.com\)
- 6) If Spelling, Punctuation and Grammar (AO6) are your biggest issues, a revision guide that helps you practise is also available: ISBN-13: 978-1782942191.
